TTG GRAND OPENING IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA

The Minister for Road Safety the Honourable Michael O'Brien MP, officially opened The Traffic Group's National Manufacturing facility in Beverley, South Australia.

The Traffic Group (TTG) has committed to establishing and developing a national manufacturing capability here in South Australia which we aim to be hailed as a center of excellence nationally within the next three years. This capability will be instrumental in supporting our expansion plans into the road and corporate signage sector in the near future.

We see this iconic facility evolving into a world class capability, setting new benchmarks in manufacturing excellence whilst establishing itself as an enviable employer of significance and choice in South Australia.

Con Scrinis spreads the TTG message at the opening

Through the leadership of Managing Director Con Scrinis and the partnerships he and his team have forged with road authorities, state and local government together with infrastructure providers and private enterprise, TTG will create an organisation that will be defined by exceptional on time delivery and short lead times created through a culture of perpetual improvement. These attributes will be synonymous with this facility in the future as it will enable The Traffic Group as a whole as we develop our national distribution networks for our products and services.

Together with TTG's ASX listing in the near future, we anticipate a bright and prosperous future for The Traffic Group, fuelled by market confidence in our business strategy and our seasoned leadership team. Market penetration through acquisition and consolidation is anticipated to serve us well as will providing exceptional service whilst building lasting relationships with our customers. It is our customers present and future that have given us the most confidence in what tomorrow holds by expressing the value they place on what our vision will deliver.
